To Independent Electricity Systems Operator,

Ontario will fail its citizens if it doesn't take the next big step in energy production: fossil-free generation. The move to gas-power did lower our carbon footprint somewhat and made a huge difference in air quality. But gas generation will never put an end to our self-destructive dependence on fossil fuels. The move by this government to backtrack on green energy commitments has locked us in to a cruel cycle of long-term greenhouse gas production and deadly climate change. We have a significant and precious window over the next five years to get off fossil fuel. We must change course starting today.

Yours truly,

Brian Young
