1. Introduction

This document provides an overview of Test Scenario 4: Notice of Disagreements (NODs) under the End-to-End Testing phase of the Market Renewal Program.

This document includes the following information:

- a short description of the test scenario as it relates to Market Rules Chapter 0.9 s.6.8 and Market Manual Part 0.5.10 s.3,
- out of scope items and activities during this test execution,
- the resource and participation types that are recommended to execute this test scenario,
- key dates for impacted Market Participants, and
- the test cases along with the steps that users will execute to verify this test scenario.

2. Scenario Description

Market Participants may test the ability to submit Notices of Disagreement and receive automatic confirmations from the IESO after the submission. The IESO will not be assessing the submitted NODs for this test phase. As a reminder, the NODs may only be submitted during the NOD window of 6 business days after the statements are issued.

The market participants will verify the test by ensuring that they received an automatic confirmation after the NOD submission.

3. What is out of scope for this test scenario?

The following items are out of scope in the execution of this test scenario:

- The IESO review of the NODs

4. Impacted Participation Types

This test scenario is recommended for the following participation types:

- Dispatchable and Non-Dispatchable Generators,
- Dispatchable and Non-Dispatchable Loads,

- Dispatchable Electricity Storage Participants as a Load and as a Generator,
- Intertie Traders,
- Virtual Traders,
