2025 First Nations Energy Symposium: Indigenous Power, Partnerships and Possibilities— Celebrating Indigenous Leadership in Shaping a Sustainable Energy Future

November 20 – 21, 2025

Territory Acknowledgement

Toronto has long been a cultural crossroads and homeland of various peoples and Nations. The Wendat, Attawandaron, Haudenosaunee, and Anishinabek have lived here at various times. The origin of the name Toronto is attributed to the Kanien'keha/Mohawk word Tkaron:to, which means “tree in the water there,” referring to the ancient fishing weirs situated between Lakes Simcoe and Couchiching which is reached by the Carrying-Place trail and Humber River. This river was called by the French the Rivière Taronto, and the French forts in the area were known as Fort Toronto.

Currently, Indigenous peoples of many First Nations, Inuit and Métis communities make this their home and care for its lands. The Mississaugas of the Credit entered Treaty 13; the Six Nations, allied with the British, settled in the Haldimand Tract on the Grand River; and other First Nations entered the Williams Treaties.

Artist's statement

Within the buffalo's body reside a fish, a turtle, and two birds—each representing different elements of life and relationship. The turtle, capable of living in both water and on land, symbolizes the meeting point between the physical and the spiritual, while the fish speaks to the deep, unseen currents of connection beneath the surface. The birds, one feeding the other, represent care, guidance, and the cycle of giving—further grounding the piece in themes of kinship. Above them all, the sun and moon hang together, reminding us of the balance between day and night, masculine and feminine, seen and unseen.

Through a seamless flow of bold and soft lines, Within the Buffalo weaves land, water, and sky into one unified image—each element interdependent, each life connected. This work invites the viewer to reflect not just on the natural world, but on the quiet ways we are all held together through relationship.

Message from Lesley Gallinger President and CEO, Independent Electricity System Operator

Lesley Gallinger
President and Chief Executive Officer at Independent Electricity
System Operator (IESO)

She: kon, Aannin, Boozhoo

Welcome to the Independent Electricity System Operator's (IESO) 9th annual First Nations Energy Symposium.

Each year, this event provides an opportunity for Indigenous communities and members of the IESO leadership team to come together, strengthen relationships, and exchange knowledge in the spirit of collaboration.

The theme of this year's Symposium, "Indigenous Power, Partnerships, and Possibilities – Celebrating Indigenous Leadership in Shaping a Sustainable Energy Future," reflects the essential role First Nation communities play in the energy sector. Through the development of major projects, you are helping to build a clean, modernized grid. By sharing your knowledge of the land, you are ensuring energy projects are designed for long-term success. And by partnering with industry, you are unlocking opportunities that not only support the electricity system, but overall economic resilience and prosperity.

As we work to expand Ontario's energy systems to drive economic growth and help communities thrive, we must also support

First Nation leadership in the sector by ensuring your communities have the tools and resources they need to make informed decisions about how energy is generated, distributed, and consumed.

The current push to expand our infrastructure will require us to build new transmission lines, invest in emerging technologies, and develop new sources of generation. This work depends on strong First Nation leadership and partnerships that are grounded in respect for Indigenous rights.

Over the next two days, I look forward to hearing your thoughts and perspectives on how we can work together to ensure all voices are heard as we build out a reliable, affordable, and sustainable electricity system for us all.

Sincerely,

Ontario Energy Network Indigenous Energy Scholarship Recipients for 2025

Congratulations to Aiden Dillon and Remington Clark for receiving the 2025 Ontario Energy Network Indigenous Energy Scholarship.

This scholarship is jointly sponsored by the IESO and the Ontario Energy Network. Aiden is a second-year Bachelor of Science in Electrical Engineering student at the University of Calgary. Aiden says a career in power systems and distribution would allow him to solve meaningful problems that directly impact communities, industry and the future of clean energy.

Remington is a third year Engineering Technology student at Confederation College. Remington is interested in the field of mechatronics and automation who says this scholarship will help him focus on his education and motivate him to give back to his community.

Day 1 Agenda

8:00 am – 9:00 am	EVENT DESK/LOBBY Registration and Breakfast

Lunch and Connect

1:30 pm – 2:30 pm

Panel Discussion: Consent is not a Checkbox

Despite frequent references to consultation and consent, many Indigenous communities remain excluded from early, informed decision-making. This session unpacks how Free, Prior, and Informed Consent is being applied—or misapplied—in energy and infrastructure projects. Drawing on recent legislation like Bill C-5 and Ontario's Bill 5, panelists will explore practical gaps, legal interpretations, and what meaningful consent really requires.

MODERATOR

Damien Côté, Chief Commissioner, Ontario Energy Board

PRESENTERS

Grand Council Chief Linda Debassige, Anishinabek Nation Grand Council

Chief Bruce Achneepineskum, Marten Falls First Nation

Erika Voaklander, JFK Law

2:30 pm – 3:00 pm

EXHIBITOR HALL

Break: Networking

3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Panel Discussion: Deals that Deliver

As Indigenous communities increasingly pursue equity stakes in energy and infrastructure projects, the need for strong internal governance, risk management, and negotiation readiness has never been greater. This panel explores how Nations can structure major project partnerships to ensure long-term benefit, maintain control, and protect community priorities.

MODERATOR

Jaimie Lickers, Senior Vice-President, Indigenous Markets, CIBC

PRESENTERS

Alena Thouin, Chief Strategy and Operations Officer, Building Ontario Fund

Justin Lok, Director, Investments, Canada Infrastructure Bank

Valerie Helbron, Partner, Torys LLP

Matthew Jackson, Vice President Indigenous Partnerships & Business Development, Hydro One

4:00 pm – 4:15 pm

Closing Remarks

PRESENTER

Kevin Berube, Director, Indigenous Relations, IESO
